COUPLE LEAVES CITY SUDDENLY

Mr. and Mrs. James Pauley Disappear, Owing House Rent and Several Other Bills.

CAME HERE FROM LIBERTY

Arouse Suspicion of Neighbors by Their Mysterious Actions of Last Four Weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. James Pauley, who for the past four weeks have been living in the south half of Mrs. Mary Cline's property in North Harrison street, mysteriously disappeared some time last night or this morning, owing house rent and several bills.
So far they have not been located and probably never will be.

The couple came to this city about four weeks ago, saying they were from near Liberty, Ind. They intimated that they had been married only a few days and rented the house on the pretext that they were to make this city their home. For some time past the neighbors have been suspicious because of their peculiar actions. Mr. Pauley secured a position on the streets, but according to all reports had no inclination to work, and some days only worked about one-half the time.

Pauley secured credit at several stores on the grounds that his father owned a large farm and would send him some money soon. His plan worked and now the people who trusted him are losers. Mrs. Cline, who lives in the other half of the house, was the first to notice their mysterious actions. She called the attention of several neighbors to the couple and at once the whole neighborhood began to take notice

About the strangest of the actions was that they slept late almost every morning and a large part of the day.
At night both were alert and went out together, sometimes remaining out until twelve and one o'clock.
They kept this up for some time even venturing out on stormy nights. Mrs.
Cline began worrying about her rent money which they had not paid and had almost decided to end the mystery by forcing them to leave when the climax came.

This morning she noticed that it was very quiet on the other side of the house, but at first paid no attention because she supposed they were asleep. After an hour or two had passed, Mrs. Cline became more suspicious and told one of her neighbors. It was finally decided that they investigate and on going into the front room, it was found deserted.
On the stand was a note stating that they would return and pay their debts and giving Mrs. Cline what little furniture there was for the rent she had coming.

Mrs. Cline will not get the furniture, for it was rented from a second-hand store. A few days ago Mrs. Pauley told that she had sold most of her chinaware to buy food and the family seemed to be in bad straits. They had little furniture and the house was furnished throughout in a manner which would lead one to believe that their move had been contemplated. A few days ago Mrs.
Pauley applied for work as a housekeeper through a want ad, but their sudden departure would seem as though she was unsuccessful in finding a position.

Meeting With Success.

Word has been received in this city from C. F. Felton, a former resident here, stating that he had been promoted from the accounting department of the Spokesman Review to that of cashier. The Spokesman Review is published at Spokane, has made rapid advancement and his many friends here are glad to learn of his success.

MILROY MINISTER GOES TO NEW FIELD

The Rev. H. W. Baldrige Accepts a Call to Brightwood M. E.
Church.

SUCCESSOR NOT YET NAMED

The Rev. H. W. Baldrige, pastor of the Milroy Methodist church, has accepted a call to the Brightwood M.
E. church in Indianapolis and will leave soon to begin his new duties.
The Rev. Mr. Baldrige has had charge of the Milroy church for a little more than two and one-half years. During this period a new church has been erected and the pastor has gained a reputation as being a capable minister. While the members of the church realize their loss in his going, their best wishes go with him. His successor has not yet been named.

FOREIGNERS COME TO WORK STREETS

Thirty Austrians and Roumanians Arrive to be Employed by Adams Construction Company.

WILL LIVE IN SMALL "SHACK"

Thirty foreigners arrived this morning and will go to work in the morning for the Adams Construction company on the streets which are being paved. About half of the number comes from Austria, while the others are Roumanians. John Day, business agent for the company, hired the gang in Cleveland, Ohio, from where they came here. A "shack" has been erected for them in the field along the east pike leading to East Hill cemetery and they will reside there until the work is finished. The men are said to be less troublesome than Italians and the company believes that they will have little trouble with them.

Great progress is being made in South Main street, where the work is gradually being brought to an end.
Brick has been laid beginning at the southern extremity of the improvement to the covered bridge. It is planned to finish Main street this week and it will be opened for traffic in a short time. When Main street is completed the whole force will go to work on Second street and it is thought that the whole job can be completed before the summer is old.

NOBLE SUFFERS EPILEPTIC FIT

Man Convicted of Murder is Stricken With Spell Similar to Ones Described in Trial.

IS REVIVED BY PHYSICIANS

Mumbles Incoherently About Sheriff Patterson Promising Light Sentence if he Pleaded Guilty.

While Ben Noble, convicted of the murder of Albert Sprague of Decatur county during the last term of court, played solitaire in his cell in the jail this afternoon, he felt an epileptic spell coming on him, the same as were described in the trial as being very frequent in his life. Noble declared after he was revived by physicians about four o'clock that he felt certain that he was going to have a fit and that he started toward the door, opening into the front part of the ail. Just as he got into the corridor, he fainted and fell over, calling at the same time for help.

Mrs. Bebout rushed out and found Noble lying on the floor. The sheriff was away and Mrs. Bebout, after making several efforts to call a physician, went after neighbors, who came and attempted to revive Noble.
Policemen Wolters and McAllister happened in the jail while the people were working with him and assisted him to a cot where he breathed heavily and asked for a doctor. He declared over and over again that he believed he was going to die. The policemen vainly tried to bring him relief.

Finally Dr. J. G. Lewis arrived and later Dr. C. H. Parsons came. They worked with Noble for thirty minutes before they could bring him back to his normal condition. He seemed to be in a semi-conscious state and mumbled almost continually about being an innocent man. In reply to a question of one of the physician, Noble mumbled he had had them often and once a very bad one while he was working in a tobacco field in Kentucky. His statements were very similar to the story of his life which was told in the trial.

He continued to mumble about being an innocent man and the way the officers treated him in Indianapolis.
He told incoherently, without any questioning, about the time that Sheriff Patterson came to the Indianapolis jail and told him that he would get out with as low as a six months' sentence if he pleaded guilty to the murder of Albert Sprague.

Even after the doctors had revived him, Noble pleaded with them to remain. He said that he felt that he would have another one, but the physicians felt confident that the fits would not recur so soon.

HAD FILED SUIT FOR A DIVORCE

Mrs. Fred Smith, Victim of Knights-town Shooting, Asked For Legal Separation Saturday.

DOMESTIC AFFAIRS WERE BAD

Smith Just Returned From Eaton, O., Sunday, Where he Had Gone to Get Work.

Unless blood poisoning complications develop in the wounds of Mrs.
Fred Smith and Iandi Bernandi, the three victims of the shooting affray in Knightstown Sunday evening will probably recover. The single bullet from the gun of the Italian penetrated Mrs. Smith's neck at the back, blunged up through the lower part of her head and came out under the right eye. Physicians fear that Mrs.
Smith will lose the sight of that eye.
The shot which the Italian fired into his own head, when he saw people coming and feared that he had murdered Mr. and Mrs. Smith, took a downward course and came out through the back of his neck. Smith who was knocked down the stairway by the enraged Italian and received several fearful gashes in his head, will probably get well, although it was feared at first that he would die.

Bernandi was carried to the town jail unconscious, but was later able to talk. He suffered a relapse yesterday but was so far recovered that later in the day he was able to attend the preliminary hearing conducted by Deputy Prosecuting Attorney Reddick. He was bound over to the circuit court and the case will be tried in New Castle as soon as the principals are able to appear.

The shooting affray was the result of Smith returning from Eaton, O., where he had gone several weeks ago to get work and to arrange to move his family there. It is said that he returned Sunday evening to get his wife and family and take them there.
When he appeared at his home, Ber-nandi was there and the fight ensued. During Smith's absence, Mrs.
Smith had filed a divorce suit in the Henry circuit court, charging desertion and cruel treatment. They have been having trouble for some time.

Deputy Sheriff Ralph Yost of New Castle arrived in Knightstown late yesterday afternoon and expected to remove the injured man to the county jail in New Castle today if his condition permitted.

Bernandi is regarded as a bad man. Since his arrival in Knights-town several months ago, to work on the Pennsylvania double track improvements, he has been involved in several affrays. Last fall he assaulted Charles Clark, former marshal, after an altercation over a question of pay, when an attempt was made to naturalize several of the foreign railroad workmen.

The Italians in Knightstown as a rule are peaceful and law-abiding.
Since Bernandi's arrival they have stood in constant fear of him because of an evil reputation, which accompanied him from Italy. Because of his influence of an evil nature, he became the leader of the Italian colony.

The shooting caused a panic in the Italian camp. A large majority of the several hundred laborers packed their effects Sunday night and left the town. The out-going interurban cars were crowded with fleeing foreigners.

The New Castle Courier says: Smith, the victim of the foreigner's rage, was in the city Saturday afternoon looking after the interests of his children. He had just returned from Eaton, Ohio, where he had secured work and expected to remove his family from Knightstown. Upon the return he learned of the divorce proceedings and came immediately to New Castle. His object in coming was to take the necessary steps to have the children placed in the Spiceland home, during the pendency of the divorce action. He then expected to file a cross-complaint and ask that the custody of the children be given him, declaring that his wife was not a fit person to raise them.

He told his whole story to Harry G.
Thornburgh, the clerk of the court, and it seems that illicit relations between the woman and the Italian had existed for a long time. Thornburgh was favorably impressed by Smith and the recital of the conduct of the erring wife aroused the sympathy of the clerk.

Smith was directed what steps to take in the matter and left in a short time for Knightstown.

MRS. CHARLES ALGER ANSWERS LAST CALL

Prominent Woman Dies of Uremic Poisoning After an Illness Lasting Only Three Weeks.

WAS MEMBER OF M. E. CHURCH

Mrs. Charles Alger, 60 years old, died at her home at 423 North Perkins street at ten o'clock this morning, following a serious illness. Mrs.
Alger had been sick just three weeks during the last illness which caused her death. She had been suffering with kidney trouble and uremic poisoning developed, which eventually resulted fatally. No hope had been held out for Mrs. Alger the last few days as it was thought that there was little chance for her recovery.

Mrs. Alger was a member of the St. Paul M. E. church. She had taken an active interest in all church work and had been a regular attendant at all of the services. Mrs. Alger was just sixty years old the thirteenth of last month. She is survived by a husband.

Myrtle Ryan of Near Clarksburg Files Suit For Divorce.

Myrtle G. Ryan, living near Clarksburg, filed suit for divorce in the circuit court this afternoon, asking a legal separation from her husband, Cicero C. Ryan. She alleges in the complaint that they were married October 29, 1905, and only lived together until March of the next year.
She charges that he deserted her and failed to support her. She asks for the custody of her young son Charles.

PLANS MADE FOR CLOSING EVENT

Annual Commencement to be Held at Main Street Christian Church Friday, May 26.

WILL BE A BANNER CLASS

Thirty-Six Will be Graduated From High School--Prof. J. H. Scholl Re-elected.

The arrangements have about been completed for the annual exercises incident to the closing of the high school year, when the members of the Senior class will be graduated.
The commencement exercises will be held at the Main Street Christian church Friday evening, May 26. The address will be delivered by Dr.
Frances McConnell, president of De-Pauw University. The largest class in the history of the local high school will be graduated this year.

The baccalaureate sermon will be preached on the Sunday evening previous to the commencement exercises, May 21. Definite arrangements have not been made along that line yet as it is not definitely known whether or not the minister who has been asked to preach the sermon will be able to do so. The place of the sermon has not been decided either.

Dr. McConnell has spoken here before and has always pleased his hearers. He is a gifted orator and the fact that he is to speak will no doubt attract a big crowd.

The class this year will be the largest that ever graduated from the local high school. There will be at least thirty-six who will receive their diplomas this year. It is likely that two more will be able to graduate if they make up certain credits which are necessary to make the thirty-two. The largest class which was ever graduated from the local high school, was composed of thirty-four students, and it is certain that this year's class will be a banner one.

At a recent meeting of the school board, Prof. J. H. Scholl was re-elected superintendent of the public school, and all of the present high school teachers were retained in their present positions for the ensuing year. This does not mean that the personnel of the high school instructors will be the same next year, however, as it has been stated authentically that there will be two resignations. The two instructors who will resign have asked that it not be made public by the board and the members of the school governing body have acquiesced. The two vacancies will be announced later and the teachers to fill the positions will probably not be known before next summer.

Prof. J. H. Scholl will enter upon his eighth year as superintendent of the local schools next year. The high school has prospered under his supervision and has grown to unanticipated heights. During his stay here the number of high school teachers has been increased from five to seven and the general high school work has been improved. The present high school enrollment is 236 while it was only 125 when Prof. Scholl first took charge here. He has succeeded in promoting a fine social spirit among the teachers and pupils so that there is very little dissention.
The manual training and sewing departments have been introduced under his superintendency and are proving to be very successful.

Because of objections to the word "heathen" the Woman's Union Missionary Society of America for heathen lands has dropped the last three words of its name.

Hanna's Green Seal "The Made-to-Wear Paint"

If you expect to do any painting, you are interested—you should be—in the quality of the paint to be used.

In any given job of painting, labor represents practically two-thirds, material one-third the cost.

It stands to reason that with so much expense in labor, the enduring quality of the paint is all important.

Why have the painting done unless the protection and durability of the job is sought?

How is one to determine the true value and obtain paint that may be depended upon for durability?

HANNA'S GREEN SEAL PAINT IS NOT A SECRET. This paint has the printed formula on every package.

The makers have confidence and take pride in the quality and tell the public the composition of the paint.

IS THIS OF ANY VALUE TO YOU? IT OUGHT TO BE.

COMPLICATIONS ARE ARISING ON BORDER

Mexicans Disregarded Uncle Sam's Stern Injunction.

Washington, April 18.—This government is confronted by the most serious question that yet has arisen between the two countries as a result of the battle waged at Agua Prieta by Mexican troops. The formal warning of the United States against the further jeopardizing of American lives on this side of the border line was disregarded in Monday's engagement, and bullets from Mexican rifles again entered the town of Douglas, Ariz., wounding several Americans.

The United States government now finds itself in this position: It has served notice on Mexico that the occurrences of April 13 at Douglas, in which two Americans lost their lives and eleven were wounded, must not be repeated. The Mexican government has not yet replied to these forceful representations, and in the meantime American lives on American soil have again been jeopardized by the firing of Mexican rifles.

Mr. Taft and his advisers have practically exhausted their powers in handling the situation, and if anything is to be done to back up the warning of the United States, it will have to come from congress. The president's advisers have made it plain that Mr. Taft will not order a single American soldier across the border unless he is directed to do so by congress.

That President Taft fears that it may be necessary for him to order American troops across the border and that he is apprehensive that it may be necessary ultimately for the United States to intervene in revolution-ridden Mexico, is indicated in a telegram sent by the president to Governor Sloan of Arizona in reply to a telegram from the governor, who wired that five persons in Douglas were wounded during the fight, and asked if anything could be done to relieve the situation.

The president in reply said that the situation might justify him in ordering troops across the border and attempt to stop the fighting, or to fire upon both combatants from the American side, but if he took this step he must face the possibility of resistance and greater bloodshed and also the danger of having our motives misconstrued and misrepresented and of inflaming the Mexican people against many thousands of Americans now in Mexico and jeopardizing their lives and property.

"The pressure for general intervention under such conditions," he said, "might not be practical to resist. It is impossible to foresee or reckon the consequences of such a course, and we must use the greatest self-restraint to avoid it. Pending my urgent representations to the Mexican government, I cannot, therefore, order the troops at Douglas to cross the border."

He Got an Early Answer.

Durham, N. C., April 18.—Concluding a sermon on Job's question, "If a man die shall he live again?" and calling his congregation to prayer, the Rev. M. M. McFarland collapsed in his pulpit in Mebane, thirty miles west of Durham. The mumbled prayer attracted his wife's attention and she rushed to the pulpit to find him paralyzed. He died shortly after.

HEAVY LOSSES ON BOTH SIDES

Battle of Agua Prieta a Determined Conflict.

AMERICAN TOWN IS INVADED

Mexican Rebels on the Run Cross Over the Line Into Douglas, Bearing Arms, and Parade the Streets—During the Progress of the Battle Bullets Swept Over the Border and Several Americans Were Wounded.

El Paso, Tex., April 18.—Twenty-six hundred insurgents are said to have come within twelve miles of Juarez, ready to attack at once. There is hardly any doubt that the insurgents have arrived.

Douglas, Ariz., April 18.—The federals have captured the first rebel line and are continuing their advance on Agua Prieta. Antonio Garcia, one of the rebel leaders, surrendered to United States troops. "Red" Lopez and many rebels under arms are now parading the streets of Douglas. The Mexican consul protested that they should be arrested.

It is believed the rebels got hold of mescal, with the usual result. They are sneaking across the line in large numbers and are mingling with their sympathizers on this side of the line. American troops are massing in Fourth street, prepared to patrol the boundary line. Governor Sloan has urged Colonel Shunk to prevent violation of the neutrality law involved in the rebels crossing the line armed.

The battle opened at 6 o'clock Monday morning and raged practically all day. The rebels held their position stubbornly and captured two federal rapid fire guns, but the federal force was too strong for them. The loss of life has been heavy, the federal loss being estimated at from 100 to 200. The rebel commander at Agua Prieta estimates the federal dead at seventy-five. The rebel losses are twenty dead and fifty wounded.

Disregarded Uncle Sam's Warning.

Federal troops disregarded the United States warning and their promises not to fire into the United States, but in fighting from low ground they elevated their aim and bullets carried far into Douglas. The whole section of the city between Fifth street and the line was deserted. The American custom house was under heavy fire and the citizens sheltered there took refuge in a deep ditch.

Jack Hamilton, fourteen years old, standing on a building on the corner of Sixth street and Railroad avenue, half a mile north of the international line, was struck by a spent Mauser bullet. The boy gamely got up, pulled the bullet out of his breast and put it in his pocket for a souvenir.

Oscar K. Goll of Tombstone, a newspaper man, was shot in the side of the head on Fourth street. The bullet cut a long gash in the scalp along the side of his head. Bullets struck residences on Fifth and Eighth streets. The families moved out. Colonel Shunk, commanding the American troops, said he could not do anything about it, having no orders from Washington. Governor Sloan of Arizona was on the international line during the fighting. He got the cavalry to drive back two thousand American and Mexican men, women and children, including many mothers with babies in go-carts, from the danger zone. The Second street school in Douglas was under fire all morning. No attempt was made to hold school there or at the Seventh street school. Some cavalry horses bolted and ran across the line into Agua Prieta. Several of the American troopers were struck by flying bullets.

Red Cross wagons were not allowed to cross the line, by order of the American commander. American soldiers and troops have strict orders not to cross into Mexican territory on any account. Several wounded have straggled across the line and are receiving attention at the Red Cross hospital. Red Cross volunteers crossed the border and went upon the field. Every surgeon in Douglas and many from Bisbee were brought to the line to attend the wounded.

Captain Creighton Killed.

El Paso, Tex., April 18.—It is reported that Captain Creighton, the American adventurer, was killed at the battle of Bauche Saturday.

Remedies are Needed

Were we perfect, which we are not, medicines would not often be needed. But since our systems have become weakened, impaired and broken down through indiscretions which have been the early aces, through countless generations, remedies are needed to aid Nature in correcting our ailments and otherwise acquired weaknesses. To reach the seat of stomach weakness and consequent digestive troubles, there is nothing so good as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, a glyceric compound, extracted from native medicinal roots—sold for over forty years with great satisfaction to all users. For Weak Stomach, Bilelessness, Liver Complaint, Pain in the Stomach after eating, Heartburn, Bad Breath, Belching of Food, Chronic Diarrhea and other Intestinal Derangements, the "Discovery" is a time-proven and most efficient remedy.

The genuine has on its outside wrapper the Signature

W. B. Pierce, M.D.

You can't afford to accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this non-alcoholic, medicine of known composition, not even though the urgent dealer may thereby make a little bigger profit. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. Sugar-coated, tiny granules, easy to take as candy.

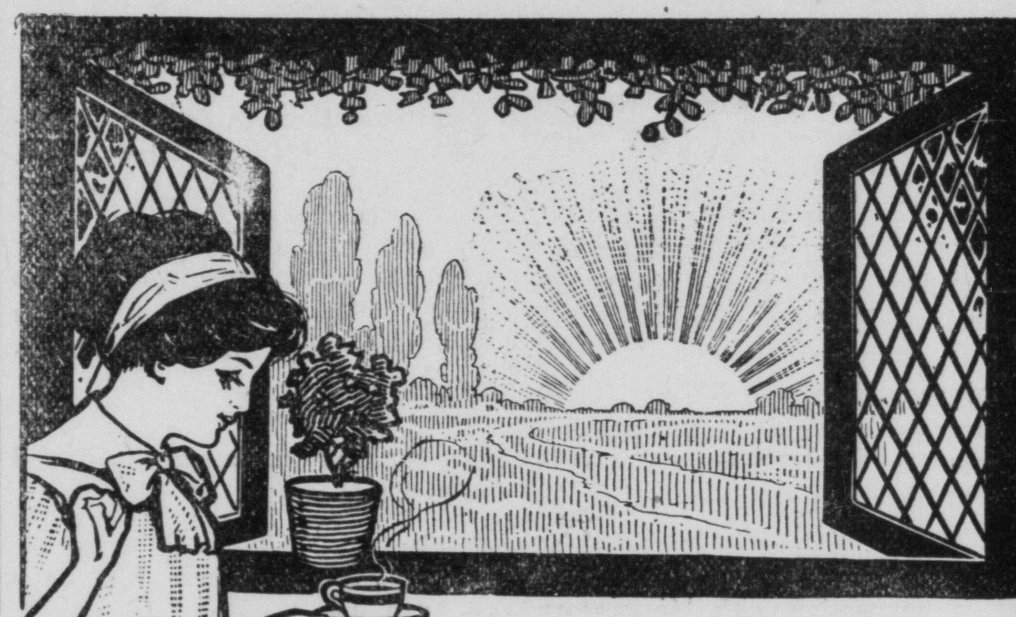

JIM CROW LAWS SAID TO HAVE BEEN BROKEN

Mrs. Booker T. Washington Reported to Be Offender.

Memphis, Tenn., April 18.—As a result of charges emanating here in railroad circles that the "Jim Crow" laws of Texas, Arkansas and Tennessee had been violated, officials of the Cotton Belt road and Pullman company may be prosecuted. The wife of Booker Washington, the noted negro educator, alighted from a Pullman Monday. Charges are made that she had been smuggled through from Paris, Tex., in the drawing room, and as there were white passengers in the same car, the "Jim Crow" laws in three states were violated. Secrecy was maintained and Mrs. Washington only left the train long after its arrival. Her efforts to get a taxicab failed, each white chauffeur refusing to drive her.

A Stitch in Time

"A stitch in time saves nine." That old axiom was never applied better than in the building and repairing of county roads. If the road supervisors in Rush county would strike when the time came then they might lay back with ease and see the good roads 365 days in the year. The splendid roads of Europe are no better tribute to good road building, but they are the results of the work of generations. Of course there is no reason to believe that Rush county must wait generations to get good roads. There are ways to get that improved highways of Europe without waiting for them to come as the natural result of the age.

Governor Woodrow Wilson is delivering some mighty good speeches against the special interests, and is said to have absolute control of the New Jersey legislature now in session, says the Marion Chronicle. But in connection with his oratory the governor will surely not neglect to have the incorporation laws of his State so amended that New Jersey will cease to be the refuge of the trusts. The New Jersey State government is now maintained out of the fees received from corporations which have made their headquarters in New Jersey because of the special privileges extended to them there. This is profitable for New Jersey, and nice for the taxpayers of the State but surely that commonwealth, under the progressive Princetonian, will not longer continue in partnership with the powers of pillage which Governor Wilson lambasts so eloquently.

Mrs. Fanny Bullock Workman is starting on her sixth annual climb up the Himalayas. This would seem a pleasant jaunt after some places we have had to lug a picnic basket to.

The Mexicans want a free ballot, but as the man once said when his daughters asked him for a chandelier, "they wouldn't play on it after they'd got it."

A secret treaty between Japan and Mexico is said to have caused the mobilization. Come now, Mr. Yellowman, if you want to see the boys play ball pay your 50 cents at the gate and don't crawl under the left field fence.

Diaz is going to give the Mexicans a real election, so instead of letting the president cast one vote for the entire nation, the untrammelled Mexicans will march up and do as their farm and mine bosses tell them.

Mr. Taft tells the fighting Mexicans to get away from the border. This is like telling the small boy to send off his July 4 crackers out in the back lot where no one can hear him.

The President threw out the ball at Washington's opening game, but he'd find it easier to settle the Mexican trouble than go down and take the umpire's place.

The last time we took a Republican inventory, we crossed out Mr. Bryan as an item, but recent events show he is still a big Republican asset.

King George excludes divorced people from the English court. This comes hard after the discomforts of living six months in Reno.

HORSE NOTES

(Western Horseman.)

John Strickler, Centerville, Iowa, has sent Baron Dillon, Jr., 2:13 3/4, and May Dillon, 2:10 1/4, to Harry Jones, Rushville, Ind., who will get them ready to race over the mile tracks.

John Dagler, superintendent of Reidston Farm, has a big bunch that he will work this season, and, judging by the blood lines, he has been no respecter of stallions, as his bunch represents every stallion of note as far as the number goes. He will take to the mile track at Richmond as soon as the stabling is completed.

Dale Axworthy, the grandly bred son of Axworthy, 2:15 1/2, now in the stud of Cleb Maple at Rushville, Ind., is one of the most prominent of the coming young ones. Dale Axworthy has already one two-year-old to his credit, Burt Axworthy, 2:29 1/4. This colt was last year, about the same time he took his record a quarter in 31 3/4 seconds and an eighth in 15 seconds and looks like a candidate for 2:10 honors this year.

In the East are two exceptional trotters by him. Homer Dale which they declare will enter the select list, as also a four-year-old filly that acts like she has the same class of speed. The three above mentioned are the only ones of his produce older than yearlings as his first real stud service was not until 1909.

Mat Williams, who has had no little experience with the set of Dale Axworthy, says that the colts are classy looking, good gaited, with natural early speed. Dale Axworthy has early extreme speed himself, could beat 2:10, been a half in 1:03 1/2, a quarter in 29 1/2 seconds and an eighth in 14 seconds and carries a profusion of extreme trotting speed. His sire, Axworthy, is not only the side of 75 standard performers, but five of them are trotters with race records from 2:01 1/4 to 2:08 3/4. The performances of Hamburg Belle, 2:01 1/4; General Watts, (3) 2:06 3/4; Hailworthy, 2:05 1/4, in their races with the greatest trotters of our day only go to show the early extreme speed tendency of the family.

PREPARING FOR WOMEN'S MEET

Entertainment Committee Made Final Arrangements This Afternoon For Sessions.

OVER 100 ARE EXPECTED

Each Church in Whitewater Presbytery is Allowed Two Delegates For the Meeting.

It is expected that at least one hundred women will arrive this evening and tomorrow morning for the thirty-fifth annual meeting of the Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary Societies of the Whitewater Presbytery of the First Presbyterian church, which will be held here tomorrow and next day. WATCH FOR THE ZODIAC SIGNS

Farmers Look For Moon Changes

And Will Not Plant When the "Sign is Wrong."

THEORY IS VERY DIFFERENT

Experiment Stations Edict Does Not

Shake Popular Belief of the Tillers of Soil.

With the approach of spring and the planting time every farmer or renter of ground is anxious to plant or sow the seed of whatever crop he hopes to reap just at the most auspicious time to insure an abundant yield. There is a sign, a natural sign for the time to plant almost everything that grows. Most of them are based upon the experience and the observation of the older class of farmers, and most of them have at least a strong dash of truth. There is, however, another class of signs, in which much more faith is put than many more people imagine. These are the ancient signs of the zodiac, and the condition of the moon.

In Rush county today there are many farmers and gardeners who would almost as soon think of planting their truck in the midst of winter as of planting it when the "sign was wrong." The impression that the moon does have a very direct and consequential effect on vegetation is so widely diffused, and so firmly established that whoever, in a spirit of iconoclasm sets forth to explain it away or to laugh it down is likely to meet with more testimony in favor of the belief than he can overcome. In every community there are men, and men of intelligence, too, who are ready to say from actual experience that both the changes of the moon and the zodiac signs have an indisputable influence upon plant life and animal life, and that any farmer or stock breeder who disregards it simply robs himself.

It is of interest to note that despite this popular belief, all the experiment stations in the United States, and there is at least one in every State, whenever they have mentioned this long established belief, have stated, emphatically and quite without hesitation, that it was groundless. Several of these institutions have carried out exhaustive tests and experiments to ascertain whether or not there was anything in either the moon or the zodiac signs and they one and all affirm that the belief is one of the rather rare instances in which a popular and long cherished idea is wholly false.

The Vaudet management offers three reels of pictures for tonight's program, which includes a Reliance film, "Even the Accuser" which is the title of the drama which is acted by the all-star Reliance stock company. It is a drama of considerable worth. The Nestor film, "Where the Sun Sets" is a western drama, said to be intensely real with thrilling situations and unexpected climaxes. "Monte Cristo" is the title of the Powers drama which will be shown. It is said to be up to the standard of the other films which will be shown. A new illustrated song will be sung.

CHAPTER II.

ARRIVED at Phillip's apartments in the Esplanade, Sam hurried into an inner room. Methodically he took cushions from the couch and pillows from the bed and piled them in a corner; then he sat down against them with the suit case between his knees.

Meanwhile Phillip, in the apartment which had been turned into an office for him, entered his record of the day's business on filing cards and upon a huge diagram sheet, then wrote a long and careful letter, after which he took pencil and paper from a drawer in his desk and delved into numerous books of statistics.

It was nearing 3 o'clock when a boy brought in two letters. One of them, in a heavy, cream tinted envelope and slightly fragrant, he opened and read through with a frown. A postscript at the end, however, brought a smile to his face, and he stepped into the adjoining apartment. Sam's eyes were closed, but Phillip had no sooner set foot in the room than he opened them, black and shining and as expressionless as the eyes of a huge turtle. Without moving he waited for Phillip to address him.

"Lucy hasn't forgotten you, Sam," said Phillip. Sam's eyes glistened. "She suddenly is the most mischievous puss on Ah evah saw in mah life," he exploded, and he ended with a shrill falsetto chuckle.

"Her mistress writes," went on Phillip, glancing at the letter again: "Lucy is turning pale since your visit to Forest Lakes, and I think she is pining away for Sam. She asked yesterday when he was coming back. When is he?"

Sam bent over the suit case and slapped his legs in a paroxysm of delight. "Ah suddenly is a lady killeh," said he.

Phillip, laughing, returned to his office and, tearing the letter once across, dropped it into the wastebasket with a gesture of almost contempt; then he opened the second letter, one addressed in a girl's hand, but a firm one. This, too, he read with a frown, but it was one of surprise. A ring of the telephone interrupted his musing.

"LUCY HASN'T FORGOTTEN YOU, SAM."

"Mr. Rensselaer?" he repeated into the telephone. "Send him right up." There came a knock at the door, and he opened it to let young Rensselaer in.

"You're just in time, Bert," he declared. "What have you to do this evening?"

"Anything or nothing," replied Rensselaer. "At 3 o'clock all I want to do is get as far away from the mutton abattoir as possible and forget all about it until the next morning. But what reckless dissipation have you in

BAD HEADACHES QUICKLY DISAPPEAR

Mrs. Chas. Hartley, 516 Franklin St., Jackson, Mich., says: "I had suffered all kinds of pain and agony from stomach complaint for several months. The pains in my stomach were very bad, the gas forced the food up into my throat, my food did not digest, headaches of the worst kind attended, I became weak, nervous and in a condition so I could not sleep.

Was alarmed at my condition as doctoring did not benefit me, finally I was induced to try MI-O-NA, and after using for about two weeks, I found a cure."

If you have a sallow complexion, pimples, blotches, or dull eyes, your digestion is all wrong, and you should take MI-O-NA stomach tablets immediately, and put your stomach right.

MI-O-NA instantly stops belching of gas, sour stomach, heartburn and foul breath and gives complete relief in five minutes.

MI-O-NA is guaranteed to cure dyspepsia, sea sickness, vomiting of pregnancy, or money back.

mind?"

"I have some friends over in New Jersey that I am more or less obliged to see," replied Phillip. "And I thought you might sacrifice yourself enough to run over with me. I understand it's only an hour and a half if you take the tunnel. Frankly, I want to get into the subway, to smell the subway-smell, and renew, if I can, the impressions of novelty that I enjoyed in my boyhood. You see, I was only a kid the last time I was here."

"It must have seemed a wonderful place to you then," said Rensselaer. "For myself, I'd rather be a cow-puncher than anything I can think of, but my respected auntie can't conceive of one's living anywhere else than in or near Manhattan, and, moreover, she fears I might contract a misalliance out west, as she still declares my father did."

"That was his one best trick, wasn't it?" inquired Phillip.

"No doubt of it," returned the other. "I'm the first Rensselaer in a hundred years who has been able to bathe without the aid of a valet and the first one to have blood enough to gush when he was cut, and my mother—well, she was a real woman, gentle, but brave, too; sweetly feminine, but strong and healthy; tactful, but sincere and honest." His voice quavered, and he stopped.

"I wish I might have known her," said Kelvin. "That is a good country to produce real human beings."

Rensselaer turned to him quickly. "Of course I'm not going to ask you what your plans are nor how you reached your present point," he observed, "but you're doing a stunning thing if it's your aim to gain profitable conspicuousness. There hasn't been so much real money in the financial district in years. You certainly must have put in a remarkable five years. Where did you go from Montana?"

"Oh, down to Tennessee in the real estate business," said Phillip guardedly. "I managed to get in pretty good on them. I did a stroke or two down there that brought me some success and some influential friends. Now I am going to make a big play. You know a certain Wall street crowd, still in business, broke my father, and he died from it."

"I remember your telling me something about that. But be careful you don't overplay your game," warned Rensselaer, whereat Kelvin only smiled, though grimly enough.

They had reached the bottom of the hotel elevator shaft now, and they turned into the subway corridor, a convenience which impressed Kelvin very much.

"It's a bad development," stated Rensselaer, shaking his head. "There is a growing tendency toward these direct entrances both in business and

What Tonics Are.

When the papers are full of advertisements for this or that great tonic, people are apt to be tempted to try them, but it does not take long to discover that after all there is nothing equal to Sexine Pills for any form of nerve weakness in men and women. Sexine Pills are absolutely guaranteed. Each box has a cash coupon in it. They cost $1 a box, 6 boxes for $5. Four months' treatment for $5. in tenement districts, and it is bound to produce a race of tollers who will see no sunlight whatever. They will practically be human moles, like that errand boy yonder—undersized and undeveloped, physically, mentally and morally, white and soft and flabby, like putty. They will not be men; they will be worms."

"Sometimes the worm may turn," Phillip speculated. "and if it does watch out! When a country loses its middle class it is in a bad way. You can crush out of mankind everything, even hope, with one exception—the capacity to kill."

Rensselaer laughed. "Can you imagine anything more amusing than a fight with about fifty of those chaps?" "I don't see the fun in it," objected Phillip. "I saw a crowd of newsboys in Chicago attack a very brawny man, and they nearly killed him."

"I've known cowmen to fight over a milder discussion than this," laughed Rensselaer. "I guess we'd better drop it. Do you remember that famous fight between Mutton Harris and Freckles Lane over the proper way to flop a pancake?"

That started a line of reminiscences which lasted until they searched out the home of Ben White.

The Whites were strictly an installment family. They lived in an installment house, wore installment clothing, sat upon installment furniture and read installment books. As Kelvin and Rensselaer turned in at the gate a scowling collector was turning away from the door, in which stood a plump, rosy and altogether wholesome looking young woman.

"I knew you'd come!" she said, with an unmistakable ring of delight in her voice.

"Quite naturally," Phillip assured her as he shook hands with her. "Allow me to introduce Mr. Rensselaer, Miss White."

"How lucky I am!" she said eagerly as they walked up the steps. "When I read your name in the Sunday list of hotel arrivals I just felt sure that it must be our Phillip Kelvin, and I told father that I was bound to write to you and invite you to come out."

"I wondered how you found me so readily," he commented, smiling.

"It's because I'm so lonesome," she replied. "We don't make friends here as we did in Tennessee, so I am for ever and ever reading the hotel arrivals, hoping that among the names I'll find somebody we used to know." She paused a moment and laughed at herself. "But I never found one until now," she admitted, "because they don't publish the arrivals at the cheap hotels, and we never knew anybody who was likely to be able to stop at the more expensive ones. That is how I came to be sure it was you."

"I don't see why," objected Phillip. "When you knew me I was as poor as a church mouse."

"I know, but that was five years ago, and I felt sure that in five years you ought to be stopping at the Esplanade or you wouldn't be the Phillip I knew."

"That's a very pretty compliment, Phillip," said Rensselaer.

"This young lady couldn't say any other sort of thing about me if she is like she used to be," replied Phillip, placing his hand affectionately upon her shoulder. "She was one of my staunchest adherents in those days, long before she was a young lady. How old were you when I left, Elsie?"

"Fifteen," she replied.

"Five years ago," mused Phillip. "Now you are twenty."

"And you're thirty-one," she returned. "My, how old we're becoming!"

She led them into the little parlor, which opened directly from the stoop. In one corner was a music rack filled with music, and though that corner was filled with a big chair it seemed conspicuously bare. To Phillip, who knew the Whites so well, that space told its own story. The payments on the installment piano had not been kept up!

Elsie called back across the dining room to the kitchen:

"Mr. Kelvin is here, mother."

A very much faded looking woman of forty-two or forty-three came in, drying the backs of her hands with her palms.

"I'm mighty glad to see you," she said, shaking hands with him, and her tired eyes grew a trifle brighter. "My, how solid looking you've grown! Seems to me you look as if you was hunting for somebody to contrary you. You didn't use to look that way when you boarded with us—did he, Elsie?"

Kelvin turned to Elsie, and in his gaze Rensselaer thought that he read friendly admiration and nothing more. His look had not that rapt eagerness of her gaze and never would have for any woman, Rensselaer found himself deciding. He decided wrongly. Kelvin had found himself strongly drawn to Elsie, but he sternly suppressed that tendency as quickly as he recognized it in himself.

"I don't know," replied Elsie to her mother's question. "There seems to be some slight change, but to me he is just the same old Phillip, whom I'm glad to see again and hope to see often."

"I suppose you're married by this time," suggested Mrs. White.

"I have never stayed in one place long enough to get married, except in Tennessee, and there I was too busy," laughed Phillip.

"Elsie has never forgot you," Mrs. White next observed. "She thinks about you all the time, and she's been talking about you ever since we moved away."

The connection of Mrs. White's remarks was so absurdly palpable that Rensselaer could not help letting his eyes twinkle, and Elsie, catching his glance of amusement, laughed outright, whereupon the two callers joined, very much to Mrs. White's surprise.

"You was a mighty busy young man even in that six months before we moved away," rattled on Mrs. White. "We was all sorry we had to go and leave you behind, and it nigh broke Elsie's heart. But she's kep' track of you all right. She made us take a paper from back home on purpose. First we saw that you struck oil on that cheap little two acres of ground you scraped together and bought, then you bought some coal land and built a foundry and a railroad or what not. I don't know what all you done, but Elsie can tell you every bit of it, from A to Izzard. She's—"

"Mother, did you call father?" interrupted Elsie demurely.

"Yes, he'll be right in. He's out in the garden pottering around. You know he always was crazy about gardening, and he ain't working now."

"How are the rest of the family?" Kelvin asked.

Both Elsie and her mother looked concerned.

"Grace is married," said Mrs. White. "Ed got his spine hurt in a football game, and he's upstairs now. You must see him before you go. He always liked you so well. All three of the children did, for that matter, although none of them put a crown and a royal robe on you like Elsie did. Yes, you did, Elsie, you know you did, and you never would give any encouragement to a beau from that day to this. I'm afraid Ed's going to be an invalid all his life."

"Oh, that must be seen to," protested Phillip, shocked in spite of his embarrassment. "Perhaps a specialist could bring him out all right."

Mrs. White shrugged her shoulders despairingly. "Specialists cost money, and we ain't got it—not these times." (To be continued.)

After a hard day at the office or shop, your head aching, your nerves all tied up in knots, and your temper anything but agreeable, just remember that Caparine will set you right. It removes the cause, puts you in condition to enjoy your restful hours. In the home where Caparine is always on hand there is good health and cheerfulness.

COW CAUSES AUTO MISHAP

AUTOMOBILE TURNS TURTLE

Miss Mary Neutzenhelzer is Pinned Beneath it and Suffers Dis-location of Left Hip.

Miss Mary Neutzenhelzer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Neutzen-helzer of North Morgan street, suffered a dislocation of the left hip last evening, when the automobile in which she was riding turned turtle and pinned her underneath it. The machine struck a cow in the road which caused the accident. Miss Neutzenhelzer was removed to the Sexton sanatorium shortly after the accident when the dislocated hip was set by Drs. J. C. Sexton and Lowell M. Green. She rested easy today and it is predicted that her complete recovery will come shortly.

Miss Cecil Robertson and John Carr rode in the front seat and Miss Neutzenhelzer and Harry Osborne rode in the back seat, when the accident happened. Some members of the company of young people had been attending the Easter dance at the Modern Woodmen hall and they were taking a short ride between dances, intending to go out East Eighth street to what is known as Campbell's barn, turn west to Main street and come back to the dance.

As the machine was being driven up the short steep hill by Carr just east of the entrance to the Country club, a cow darted into the road and directly in the path of the auto. The bovine was killed instantly and the party of young people was hurled through the air and all of them escaped injury except Miss Neutzen-helzer. Miss Robertson's face was slightly scarred. One broken wheel was the only damage done to the machine.

The practice of allowing live stock to run at large on the highways is a very dangerous one, especially for auto drivers. Numerous accidents have occurred for the same reason as the one last night. The practice of stalking stock along the roads is also dangerous, as the animals often walk across the road and the drivers never see the paper, causing them to be upset. There is a statute against such practice and damages may be collected if the offender is worth it.

The Columbia Grafonola "Mignon" is the first instrument of its class ever offered under two hundred dollars. It is the latest evolution of "the one incomparable musical instrument"—and it IS a musical instrument, unmistakably and at the first glance. Its every line, simple, dignified and classic, suggests MUSIC; and every note it plays or sings is a corroboration of its first impression.

Wholly unmechanical in appearance, yet faultless in its mechanism, designed by a musical instrument artist, and built by an artist in woodwork—it is everything that a musical instrument ought to be and INCOMPARABLE in its own class.

Tonally and acoustically the Grafonola "Mignon" is perfect, the tone being led, according to the latest method, through the tone-arm and into the tone-chamber underneath the turn-table, from which it floats into the room through the two upper front doors, by the complete opening or partial closing of which the volume of tone may be regulated. The absolute naturalness of the reproduction is precisely such as has distinguished the other types of the Columbia Grafonola. Beneath the tone-chamber and occupying the lower half of the instrument is the compartment enclosing the record albums, of which there are four, holding in all 60 Double-Disc records of any size (120 selections.) Space for two other albums is provided in the back of the cabinet.

The Columbia Grafonola "Mignon" is a little over 44 inches in height, 17½ inches wide, and 22½ inches deep.

In presenting the Grafonola "Mignon" at the price of $150, complete, we are already assured of its immediate and enthusiastic reception by a discriminating public.

In connection with my piano business, I am handling the Grafonola and carry a complete line of records for disc and cylinder machines
